

Wakefield Scores Early To Win Impressively At Rockville

Wakefield High School bounced back from Friday's pasting by Falls Church to clobber Richard Montgomery the following night by a final count of 58-39 in Rockville, Maryland.

Richard Montgomery never did get in the ball game as the indignant Warriors hit for the first bucket and held the Rockets at bay the entire evening.

With Wakefield's Dan Myers

playing his best offensive game of the year while tossing in 14 points there was no stopping the Warriors' assault.

After slapping the Rockets around by a handsome 30-20 halftime margin the Warriors erupted for another 18 tallies in the third period while holding their opponents to a mere 3 points.

Rockville tried a comeback in the final stanza but the attempt failed pathetically. Despite the efforts of Montgomery's Al Richardson, who paced the Rockets' assault with 12 markers, the Maryland boys could not even threaten to close the gap.

Although the Rockets out punched the Warriors 13-10 in the last period the Rockville boys couldn't lift their score to less humiliating standreds and wound up with a 19 point deficit.

NOTES: It must have been like old home night to Maynard Haithcock, Wakefield's Junior Varsity coach. Maynard was varsity basketball coach at Richard Montgomery last year and had a grand time greeting old friends. He didn't spare the rod, though. His Jayvee squad, using reserves most of the way, crushed the Little Rockets 52-32 as Lou Schweichardt flipped in 15 points.

HONEST, NOBODY GOT HURT—It may look like Wakefield's Danny Myers is stomping Richard Montgomery's Al Richardson in the Saturday night basketball game but actually there was no collision. In the background is the Warriors' Henry Mayo (30). Wakefield won the contest 58-39.
